In choosing the "Eye in the Pyramid" for her logo, Pamela believes it "symbolic of the Trinity and of the One Universal Consciousness in all things," and the pyramid's three points represent "birth, life and death and the eye in the center is that which is beyond them."

Pamela was raised on what was once her grandparents' 92-acre farm in West Knox County and still lives in West Knoxville with her two miracle sons. The two "miracles" that were predicted over 12 years ago, by her dear friend and Mentor, Bobby Drinnon.

At an early age of 5, Pamela began the journey toward her spiritual awakening and is no stranger to the many miracles that have occurred in her life. The exposure to her Cherokee heritage and traditions, and the experience of unconditional love from her maternal grandmother played a major role in her spiritual path and desire to seek out, and ultimately find a truth beyond conventional teachings of religion and science. After years of learning life's lessons and the sudden loss of her father and best friend, Pamela was spiritually guided to that ultimate truth, and now knows her true life purpose is to heal and teach others the love and inner peace she graciously found in God, the Great and Holy Spirit.

A successful business woman and professional Dermapigmentologist for over 18 years, Pamela has also authored many writings on meditation, chakras, auras and spiritual topics and is currently developing a series of meditation compact discs, and writing her new book due for publication release, titled: "Spiritually Awakening The Divine Light Within™" which will include a morning and evening meditation CD. Pamela's new book will share her amazing personal journey and serve as a guide in showing others how they too, can walk in the light of the Divine path and discover their own personal gifts of inner awareness. Gifts, which Pamela truly believes are available to anyone, who seeks the truth-- in love and light.
